Abstract

Integrative Theological Formation

Norma Cook Everist

In this session participants will be invited to take an active part in identifying existential issues in their own churches, sharing examples of integrative theological approaches they may be using, and of doing theology inductively beginning with daily life. Transformative theology connects not only with our minds, but also with our hands and hearts. Using integrative approaches means not that we need specific theological disciplines less but that we need them more; they need not be separated or in opposition, but in ongoing interaction where they mutually inform and transform people in our theological schools and churches.
