Values
Our values derive from our Lutheran identity. They are a deeply rooted response to God's grace as revealed through Jesus Christ.

As a communion, we are called to live in grace to participate in God's vision and mission for the world.

Ecumenism and Church Leadership
Ecumenism means living in terms of the unity of believers in the one, holy, apostolic church and of the confessional diversity of the one, holy, apostolic church.

Our commitment to human rights and justice means that we work on the underlying causes of poverty and exclusion and for a more equitable distribution of power, resources, and opportunities.

Bible quotes

Respect for Diversity
Diversity among us expresses the richness of God's creation.

As a global communion of churches we value and seek to understand our differences in culture, history, and context.

We also cherish the way in which these have shaped our theological understandings, our perspectives on social and ethical questions, and our practices of ministry, mission, and service.
